June Williamson: Selected Bibliography

“Malls, Metros and the Elusive Middle”

Spitzer School of Architecture Lecture – March 5, 2015

About:

June Williamson is associate professor at the CCNY Spitzer School of Architecture, teaching in the architecture and urban design programs. Williamson also has held previous teaching appointments at Columbia University, Georgia Tech, the University of Utah, and the Boston Architectural College. Earning her BA from Yale University, her MArch from MIT, and her MUD from the City College of New York, Williamson practiced architecture and urban design in Los Angeles, Atlanta, Salt Lake City, Boston and New York. She is co-author of Retrofitting Suburbia (below), which won the PROSE Award for architecture and planning from the Association of American Publishers. In 2013-14 she conceived the ParkingPLUS Design Challenge, inviting architects to rethink parking in Long Island's suburban downtowns, a follow-up to the 2010 Build a Better Burb urban ideas competition showcased in her book Designing Suburban Futures. Both projects were sponsored by the Long Island Index, a project of the Rauch Foundation.
