Joseph Tanney: Selected Bibliography

“The Modern Modular”
Spitzer School of Architecture Lecture – September 19, 2013

About:

In 1990 Joe Tanney founded the award-winning firm, Resolution: 4 Architecture, with Robert Luntz in New York. Tanney worked for Peter Eisenman and Charles Gwathmey previously. Res4 recently submitted the winning entry in the NCR International Design Competition for an amphitheater in Columbia, SC, known as Nature’s Theater. The firm won a New York AIA Award for designing a Manhattan-based internet company and it also designed a residence for the architect Peter Eisenman and family. Additionally, the firm took first place in the Dwell Home Design Invitational for a prefabricated home in Pittsboro, NC. Their competition-winning design in 2003 sparked more interest in prefabrication. The firm has since completed several more modular homes, all unique in their layouts and configurations. They are now known as THE MODERN MODULAR. He is a visiting distinguished critic in Fall 2013 at the Bernard and Anne Spitzer School of Architecture.
