Robert Twombly: Selected Bibliography

“What Will Be Has Always Been”
Spitzer School of Architecture Lecture – April 4, 2013

About:

A recently retired Distinguished Professor of Architectural History at the Spitzer School of Architecture, Robert Twombly has also taught at the University of Paris and held the Walt Whitman Chair in American Civilization at the University of Leiden (Netherlands). Post retirement he has conducted spring seminars at CCNY on 20th century architects. Twombly earned his degrees from Harvard and the University of Wisconsin. He has published biographies of Frank Lloyd Wright and Louis Sullivan, as well as Power and Style: A Critique of Twentieth-Century Architecture in the United States and also edited a number of other books. Twombly’s most recent book (with Narciso Menocal) is Louis Sullivan: The Poetry of Architecture, published by W. W. Norton. He is currently at work revising a manuscript tentatively entitled Philip Johnson’s Fascist Career, 1933-1940.

Books:

________________

________________

________________

________________

________________

________________

________________

________________

Books listed above are available in the CCNY Architecture Library unless otherwise noted.

Articles:

Note: Review of Louis Sullivan: the poetry of architecture.

____________.

Articles listed above are available in the CCNY Architecture Library unless otherwise noted.